Elected Prosecutor in November 2010 on a platform of restoring honor and integrity to the Marion County Prosecutor's Office, Terry Curry is a widely respected attorney in Indianapolis, having practiced as a trial lawyer for more than 30 years in Indiana and Federal courts. His diverse trial experience from 1978 to the present has included employment as a Deputy Prosecutor in the Marion County Prosecutor's Office, as a law firm partner, and as a solo practitioner. He has served as lead counsel in more than 125 court and jury trials, arbitrations, and injunction hearings.

While a Deputy Prosecutor, Terry was primarily responsible for prosecution of white collar crime and political corruption. His numerous successful prosecutions included bribery by public officials, securities fraud, Ponzi schemes, and employee embezzlements. However, he became so passionate about the work of the office that he also volunteered to take on cases outside of his area of primary responsibility, as well as supervised many of his peers. In six years as a Deputy Prosecutor, Terry ultimately prosecuted hundreds of felony cases, including murder, robbery, burglary, forgery, theft, and drug offenses. Terry's legal career has also included significant trial experience in complex civil matters.

As evaluated by his peers in the Indianapolis legal community, Terry has received the highest possible rating for legal ability and ethical standards. Martindale-Hubbell is a national attorney directory service which maintains a proprietary rating system based upon survey of an attorney's peers. Terry's rating is "AV Preeminent 5.0 out of 5.0," which is the highest possible rating for legal ability and ethical standards.

An avid athlete, Terry enrolled at Butler University in 1967 with the benefit of academic and athletic scholarships. He graduated from Butler in 1971, and enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1971. He was honorably discharged in 1973.

After discharge from the Army, Terry initially deferred enrollment to law school in order to concentrate on raising his three-year-old daughter. Terry was employed as a reporter for the Indianapolis News from 1973 to 1975. While employed at the News, Terry was awarded a prestigious Casper Award for a series of articles exposing "red-lining"—discriminatory lending practices—in Marion County.

In 1975, he entered Indiana University Law School to pursue his dream of becoming a trial attorney. The G.I. Bill played a key role in making his legal education possible, and he graduated with highest honors in 1978. Like his father before, Terry was able to pursue his chosen career through G.I. Bill benefits. Terry graduated with highest honors of summa cum laude in 1978.

Terry and his family live in Indianapolis, where he enjoys spending time with his grandchildren.
